December 2009 - Issue 60

Merry Christmas to you all

Hello and welcome to the 60th issue of 'The Informer.'

Whether Christmas means a time to reflect upon the year, a time to remember our integral beliefs or just a time to rest...I believe that somewhere in the logic of time and history, the fact that it's the end of the year means that we can all celebrate whatever we feel deserves celebrating. From a business point of view we look at how the year has treated us and look forward to the year ahead. We look at goals, targets and achievements, but we also look at ways in which we can improve, move on and sustain a healthy relationship with those that matter most - our customers.

This is the final chapter of 2009's issues of 'The Informer'. We feature more industry news and, I trust, some handy hints .

Merry Christmas and happy New Year from all at C&G Business Equipment Lt.

Enjoy the read and we'll see you 2010!

All the best

Aaron

Partner news - Canon

Canon Continues its 18 Year Corporate Sponsorship of the World Press Photo Foundation

Canon announces a further three year renewal of its Corporate Sponsorship of the World Press Photo Foundation, marking 18 years as a partner promoting excellence in photojournalism.

World Press Photo, an independent, non-profit organisation, was founded in 1955 and is universally acknowledged as the world's most prestigious competition for photo journalists. Attracting thousands of photographers, the competition offers a sometimes rare and iconic snapshot into global issues and events.

Canon's range of professional products are used by photographers around the world who demand the toughest and most dependable products. Rainer Fuehres, Head of Canon Consumer Imaging, Europe, comments: "Canon is honoured to be continuing its association with this prestigious organisation after 18 years. The images submitted as part of the competition have a tremendous impact on our collective understanding of world events."

Lillian Baruch, Executive Board Member, World Press Photo added: "We are delighted that Canon has extended its 18-year relationship with World Press Photo by a further three years. Especially in today's difficult economic climate, this renewed commitment to the future of the photographic industry, and our organisation in particular, means a lot to us. We look forward to intensifying our partnership and to jointly bringing it to a next level."

The 2009 competition saw over 5,000 professional photographers from 124 countries submit images in 10 categories. The winning image by American photographer Anthony Suau, was chosen from a collection of over 96,000 and showed an armed officer in an American home following eviction as a result of mortgage foreclosure.

The World Press Photo Exhibition 2009 will be on show at the Royal Festival Hall, South Bank Centre 7th November – 13th December 2009. Admission is free and the exhibition is open daily from 10am – 11pm.

The winner of the World Press Photo of the Year 2009 will be announced February 12th 2010.

● Stephanie McClune collects Kerris' prize

Kerris of Leoni Temco was the winner of last month's competition, however Stephanie McClune is pictured left collecting her Champagne on her behalf.

Kerris correctly spotted that our two budding football stars were Frank Lampard and Fernando Torres and all she had to do was email us with her answers.

You too could have a bottle of bubbly courtesy of C&G Business Equipment in time for the New Year's celebrations if you can identify the two youngsters featured this month.

When they were kids

The mystery guests that featured in last month's newsletter were:

Jodie Foster & Jude Law

The lucky winner is:

Julie Bedford

of

Harnhill Centre of Christian Healing

Congratulations Julie, your Champagne will be with you soon.

This month we feature two young women before they hit stardom!

The young lady on the left soon became a beautiful star of pop and screen, and is often referred to by her initials only while the pop star on the right soon found that she had a voice of an angel - though trouble would follow this diva!
