July 2009 - Issue 55

Strawberries and cream anyone?

Wimbledon Fortnight has started and hopefully, Andy Murray will continue to serve up a scorching in his quest to be the first British male singles winner since 1936!

This month's issue of The Informer guides us through a new software promotion and an update of our service-based web site that has been further improved to assist you when booking calls or requesting consumables such as paper and toners.

We have given away more

Champagne and will continue to do so just as long as you keep the entries coming in.

Please enjoy the read and fingers crossed for the tennis - is this going to be the year?

All the best

Aaron

Improving our web-based service to you

A couple of months ago we upgraded our website to enable full service functionality - in fact, everything that you need to arrange can be done on line - saving you money on your phone bills and is quick, easy and very user friendly.

Technical Manager, Jon Little said: "It has certainly helped us to book and log calls and the feedback has been extremely encouraging.

"Customers can order consumables, book a service call and even enter their meter readings in addition to viewing our latest promotions and offers."

Partner news - Canon

Canon introduces first designer business calculators with green credentials

Canon has reinforced its green credentials with the launch of the stylish, design-led "X Mark 1" calculator that is fully solar powered, requiring no batteries and is constructed using plastics from recycled Canon Prism Lens'.

The next generation display business calculator brings fashion and design to the fore with sleek, sophisticated surfaces on its keys and body and is targeted at fashion conscious executives and professionals. The streamlined, durable X Mark 1 comes in glossy black or white and follows in the footsteps of Canon's environmentally aware calculator series reaffirming the company's commitment to reducing its environmental impact.

The X Mark 1's display is recycled, using plastic left-over during the construction of prisms from Canon's digital cameras. Further reducing its environmental impact and energy consumption, the X Mark 1 is also Canon's first business calculator to work by solar power alone, without the need for back-up batteries which the majority of solar powered calculators on the market include.

"The X Mark 1 is the next generation of design-led calculators that confirms our commitment to producing innovative products that are both stylish and eco conscious. Our recycled calculators help corporations and individuals reduce their environmental footprint," said Rainer Fuehres, Head of Canon Consumer Imaging, Europe.

"The X Mark 1 takes our environmental commitment further than any other product, using recycled Canon materials and operating on solar power alone."

The X Mark 1 has Cost, Sell and Margin functions, allowing users to quickly solve complex business calculations without the need for spreadsheets and lengthy formulas. The X Mark 1's recycled construction makes it the ideal product for any corporation with a green procurement policy.

Karen's prize in safe hands

Karen Matthews of Independent Home Life Services was last month's lucky winner of a bottle of Champagne, however, her colleague Ross Robinson stood in to collect it for her.

Since the Community Care Act in 1993 the company has been part of a huge change in attitude and culture flowing out of the Community Care Act and is now at the forefront of caring for people where they are – enabling them to lead independent and integrated lives of real quality in surroundings that are familiar to them - their own homes.

When they were kids

The mystery guests that featured in last month's newsletter were:

Tom Hanks and Robert De Niro

The lucky winner is:

Debbie Miller

of Truturn

Congratulations Debbie, your Champagne will be with you soon.

The story goes that this pair, two of music's most successful songwriters of all time, were told at school that they wouldn't make a living out of music! We think that they managed to prove their teachers wrong...

Please email your answers to info@cgcopiers.co.uk and put 'July quiz' in the subject box.

Good luck!

And finally - last month saw...

*Michael Jackson, the King of Pop, pass away aged just 50
Former Charlie's Angels star, Farrah Fawcett, lose her battle with illness - aged 62
Pakistan beat Sri Lanka in the final of the T20 World Cup to become World Champions
Gareth Barry join Manchester City after 12 years service to Aston Villa*
